Statement of Independence from Commercial Influence

Continuing Education activities are key for professional development in the clinical research industry. It is important that the educational material, sessions, courses, etc. that ACRP provides is absent of any commercial influence and strictly educational in nature. The following is a list of criteria that must be followed for all presenters, speakers, trainers, writers, and generally anyone providing content for ACRP.

If you are a presenter, trainer, writer in a course offered by ACRP please review the following:

- Content must be educational in nature and focus on the practice, roles and responsibilities within clinical research, preferably to the Core Competencies and Hot Topics within the clinical research industry.
- Clinical Research product or service promotion of any type is prohibited.
- For Presentations, company logos are only allowed on the first and last slide of the presentation. No websites, logos, company initials, or promotion of any kind can be inserted in the body of the content/presentation.
- When reporting projects, case studies, etc. the name, logo or information pertaining to a company or institution that may have been involved with the project can not be displayed.

I confirm that I understand and will abide by the ACRP requirements for independence of commercial influence.
