ASSOCIATION OF CLINICAL RESEARCH PROFESSIONALS

With more than 14,000 members, the Association of Clinical Research Professionals (ACRP) is the only non-profit organization solely dedicated to representing, supporting, and advocating for clinical research professionals.

At ACRP, clinical research professionals find the very best of what they need to design a career path that's uniquely their own. Connections through an engaged community. Growth through gold-standard training. And elevation through rigorous certification.

We are moving the people and practice of clinical research forward™ by providing the tools and support clinical researchers at all stages of their career need to move ahead in ways that enable them to bring the highest degree of expertise to the research process.

Leading the Way for Workforce Development in Clinical Research

Clinical research professionals know what it takes to keep the research process moving forward—and to do so ethically and responsibly. Their role is critical and their insights invaluable. That is why ACRP is committed to amplifying the voice of clinical research professionals at all levels.

ACRP is leading the way to helping build a diverse, research-ready clinical trial workforce by raising awareness, setting standards, breaking barriers, and fostering thought leadership.

ACRP Key Initiatives

In addition to credentialing, continuing education, and networking opportunities, ACRP leads several initiatives that support the clinical research workforce.

ACRP Diversity Advisory Council (DAC)

The DAC is a group of industry leaders who support ACRP's efforts to increase diversity in the clinical research-workforce. DAC members recommend strategies to recruit and retain outstanding, high-quality clinical research professionals and students from historically underrepresented groups.

Explore DAC Activities and Resources at acrpnet.org/DAC

ACRP Ride4DEI

A diverse clinical trial workforce is imperative to the sustainability, quality, and reliability of clinical research and that's what the ACRP Ride4DEI is all about.

The ACRP Ride4DEI is the clinical research industry's premier cycling challenge that raises funds in support of ACRP educational scholarships—including attendance at ACRP's annual conference—for entry-level clinical research professionals from diverse communities. Every dollar raised will help increase access to education, training, and career advancement in clinical research.

Clinical Trials Day

Organized and promoted by ACRP since 2014, Clinical Trials Day arrives on May 20 as a joyful opportunity to pause in reflection, recognition, and admiration of all that has been accomplished thanks to clinical trials and the people behind them.

Each year, ACRP develops a campaign theme and materials that are shared by clinical researchers and organizations across the globe. In 2023, more than 15,000 visitors from 100 countries visited ACRP's website to download print and digital toolkits. ACRP's social media posts reached more than 150,000 individuals.
